Come learn Project Bandaloop's signature vertical/aerial technique - dance in the air, on the walls, and on the ground with core company members and artistic director Amelia Rudolph. Workshops will cover technique, safety, training methods, and choreography, improvisation, and play. All gear will be supplied.

Since 1991, Project Bandaloop has been performing in theaters and on buildings, towers, bridges, skyscrapers, and mountains around the world. Inspired by the possibilities of climbing and rappelling, Project Bandaloop blends dance, sport, ritual, and environmental awareness to create dynamic dances that reframe how people perceive their environment and the art form.

Reservations: 50% non-refundable deposit required to hold space.
